

FOUNDATION PAPER PIECING & CURVED PIECING

Jen Wagner, Snapdragon Quilting

Foundation paper piecing is a technique that improves accuracy and is used to make shapes that would be difficult with traditional piecing methods. Join me in this demonstration as I break down the technique step-by-step and show you tools to make it easier. A quilter once told me “Foundation paper piecing is like walking backwards in high heels” but it doesn’t have to be that way. I’ll show you it’s more like riding a bike because once you get the feel for it, it’s the same thing over, and over.

Curved Piecing doesn’t have to be scary! So many quilters shy away from curves because they don’t know how easy they can be once you know how. Join me as I demonstrate different ways to do curved piecing and give you lots of tips so you can have confident curves in your quilt.
